I am very pleased to learn that the Sikh Forum International is holding its Annual Dinner this year on 9th November, 2010 and that this would be an occasion to honour an illustrious personality with the 'Sikh of the Year' Award.

As a recipient of this coveted award in London last year, I feel honoured to have received this recognition from the Indian and especially the Sikh Community settled in Britain. I am also happy that the Sikh Forum International under the able guidance of its President Sardar Ranjit Singh OBE with the other office bearers and volunteers are doing a tremendous service for the Indian Community abroad through social services and bringing the various communities closer. I wish the Sikh Forum International a great success in their noble endeavour.
